RE: International Energy Code as Standard Proposal

Dear Board:

I have reviewed the proposal which is to suspend the management of the IECC and create a standard to take the place of the Code. Having participated in and chaired both code committees, code commissions and standards committees I do have an opinion I would like to share.

I think at this time the IECC as a standard (balanced ASNI) would provide a superior process to amend and to create the most modern of requirements. It would allow for comments as needed on the text without being overwhelmed by the public process now used for the code. The balanced ASNI process with interested parties permits the standard to be develop as the sharpest tool.

Sincerely:
